Executive Summary

What the data shows
- Lighthouse SEO scores are perfect across the dataset on both mobile and desktop: average_score = 1.0 for 5 URLs, with 0 failed audits.
- Core on-page fundamentals consistently pass on every URL tested: document-title, meta-description, link-text, image-alt, robots-txt, canonical, hreflang, crawlable-anchors, http-status-code, and is-crawlable all show pass status across the board.
- Several audits are marked not applicable across all URLs (indexing, structured-data, tap-targets, viewport, plugins, charset), indicating Lighthouse did not evaluate them in this context rather than identifying failures.

Key strengths
- Consistent passing of critical SEO hygiene checks across all URLs, including titles, meta descriptions, canonical, hreflang, and crawlability.
- No failed Lighthouse SEO audits on any tested page (mobile or desktop), suggesting strong baseline technical SEO implementation for the audited checks.
- All pages return valid HTTP status codes and are crawlable per Lighthouse signals.

Primary weaknesses
- No measurable weaknesses are reported by Lighthouse SEO in this dataset (0 failed audits).
- Multiple SEO checks are "not applicable" for all pages, meaning this dataset does not provide visibility into those areas via Lighthouse outputs (e.g., structured-data and indexing are not evaluated here).

High level roadmap
- Maintain current SEO implementation standards that produced 100% pass rates for evaluated audits (titles, meta descriptions, canonicals, hreflang, alt text, and crawlability).
- Expand measurement beyond Lighthouse for the audits marked not applicable in this run if they are business-relevant (e.g., structured data coverage), since this dataset cannot confirm their presence or quality.
- Continue monitoring SEO audit consistency across new pages/templates to ensure the current pass pattern remains stable.
